The basic building blocks of any CAD system are points, lines and polygons. These geometric objects can be manipulated in a variety of ways. Points, lines and polygons are created with the mouse by dragging on the screen with the left button held down, to form closed shapes. Points can be created and removed at any time with the "Shift-click." Lines can be created by dragging the mouse, dragging with the left button held down, or moving the pen along the curves of the line. The entire line is selected by using the right button held down.
